Colonials Provide Homecoming Rivalry
As Indians Seek Second Straight Victory Against Conference Clubs This Saturday

By Dick Rowlett

Flat Hat Sports Writer

A investing itself of Colonials from George Washington University are preparing to spoil the Homecoming celebration of students and end grad ala this Saturday when the team plays the Reservation to do battle with Coach Johnson's Indiana team.

The Indians have established themselves as the best in the Southern Conference this side of the national, which means that they are taking on the West Virginia team. The game is expected to be a close one, and the Colonials are favored by 6 to 5.

The Indians have been practicing all week in preparation for the game, and the Colonals have been practicing as well. The weather is expected to be favorable for the game.

The game will be held at 2:00 pm. It is expected to be a close one, with the Colonals favoring victory by a minimal margin.

The Colonals will wear their traditional white uniforms, while the Indians will wear their traditional red uniforms. The game is expected to be a close one, with both teams pushing hard for victory.

At halftime, the Colonals will perform their traditional war dance, while the Indians will perform their traditional war dance. The game is expected to be a close one, with both teams pushing hard for victory.

The Colonals will wear their traditional white uniforms, while the Indians will wear their traditional red uniforms. The game is expected to be a close one, with both teams pushing hard for victory.

Overall, it is expected to be an exciting game, with both teams pushing hard for victory.